Goals

- To find a nearby place to enjoy her weekend
- To avoid spending plenty of time on planning and making decisions
- To also get her friend satisfied with their evening/weekend plans

Frustrations

- "I am thinking to participate in some local events but always hard to find those information."
- "Sometimes, I have to give up going outside since I could not decide where to go."

Helena is a hard working engineering student in the University of Waterloo. During the weekdays, she attends all classes, and spend hours on her projects and assignments. On the weekend, Helena wants to take a break and hang out with her friends. However, she often get frustrated on searching for places to go and making plans. One time, she could not decide which restaurant is better, and ended with staying at home for dinner.
